Craig Head injury has become a common problem throughout the world. Many of the more severe injuries are related to road traffic and horse riding accidents. As an example, in Great Britain about 15 patients every hour are admitted to hospital for observation, because of head injury and every 2 hours one of these will die. Head injury is implicated in 1 of all deaths and 50 OF ROAD TRAFFIC ACCIDENT DEATHS. Head injury is particularly prevalent in the age group between 10 and 25. CONCUSSION has occurred, whenever patients cannot remember the actual blow that made them unconscious. * We share what we know, so that we all may grow. * Dedication Dedicated to all of you, Marie, Sean and Gareth You guys and a gal have made my little life a glorious happening c (November 2014) * About the Author Craig has a close personal interest in this area and has been researching and studying in this field for nearly twenty years stemming from a long-standing head injury.
