Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Substance of the Speech Mr. Smith began with saying, that the following Petitions, numerously signed, had been presented to the Legislature, the present Session: To the Senate and Assembly of the State of New York: What a wonder, what a shame, what a crime, that, in the midst of the light and progress of the middle of the nineteenth century, such an abomination and outrage, as slavery, should be acknowledged to be a legal institution! Who, that reverences Law, and would have it bless the world, can consent, that its sanction and support, its honor and holiness, be given to such a compound of robbery, and meanness, and murder, as is slavery? Your petitioners pray, that your Honorable Bodies request the Representatives and instruct the Senators of this State in Congress to treat the legalization of slavery as an impossibility; and, moreover, to insist, that the Federal Constitution shall, like all other laws, be subjected to the strict rules of legal interpretation, to the end, that its anti-slavery character be, thereby, seen and established, and all imputations upon that character forever excluded. The slaveholder will be strong, so long as he can plead law for his matchless crime. But take from him that plea, and he will be too weak to continue his grasp upon his victims. It is unreasonable to look for the peaceful termination of slavery? whilst the North, and especially whilst abolitionists of the North, sustain the claim of the South to its Constitutionality. But, let the North, and especially abolitionists of the North, resist, and expose the absurdity of, this claim - and slavery, denied thereafter all countenance and nourishment from...
